

The Selections

RIALTO MERLOT

Controlled Designation of Origins

The presence of marine fossils in the territory of the Euganean Hills testifies their origin: an archipelago of volcanic islands that emerged 130 million years ago. The decisive reliefs separated by fresh valleys, the suitable sun exposure and the mixing of the alluvial deposits with the disintegrated volcanic rocks, they determine intense qualitative characteristics in the grapes. These peculiarities give the red wines the color and strength they draw from the land, as well as intensity of smell and taste.
